

Indigenous and Canadian History Position

The Department of History at the University of Winnipeg acknowledges that we live and work in the ancestral and traditional territories of the Anishinaabe, Anishinew, Assiniboine, Cree, Dakota, Dene, and the heartland of the Métis nation.

We invite applications for a tenure-track position in Indigenous and Canadian History at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2022, subject to budgetary approval. The successful candidate will have or be close to completing a PhD in Indigenous or Canadian History or a directly related field. This position is designated for Indigenous persons only.

The successful candidate will be capable of teaching Indigenous history courses focused on the Canadian context, as well as Canadian history courses informed by Indigenous history. A new hire who can contribute in both areas will help the department meet the high-demand for Indigenous Course Requirement (ICR) courses, while also contributing to the Canadian area in a way that is consistent with our department's commitment to Indigenization.

The successful candidate will be expected to fully participate in academic life through contributions to research, teaching and service. The candidate is expected to have a scholarly record and a developed research agenda with strong commitment to our student body with respect to teaching and research. The candidate will perform administrative duties and engage in committee work.

The University of Winnipeg is striving to lead the way in Indigenization and is an inclusive and diverse campus. It is also a member of the Newberry Consortium for American Indian Studies. The Department of History offers courses and fosters research in a wide range of areas, themes and eras: from Winnipeg itself to Canada and the Americas, and from Europe to Africa and Asia. With the addition of an Indigenous and Canadian History specialist, we will continue to deliver a strong and vibrant curriculum focused on excellence, decolonization, accessibility, and innovation.

Applications must be submitted online via The University of Winnipeg's online recruitment system. For details on how to submit your application, please visit our Human Resources Website and, under the Employment category, choose the Faculty Employment position vacancies option: <https://www.uwinnipeg.ca/hr/employment.html>

Candidates will need to submit PDFs of the following:

- A cover letter, including brief descriptions of teaching and research interests (2-3 pages),
- curriculum vitae,
- a sample publication or writing sample (maximum 30 pages),
- the contact information for three reference letter writers.

Short-listed candidates will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

Deadline for Applications: January 21, 2022

Consideration of applications will continue until such time as the position is filled. Please send any enquiries about the position to: Dr. Meuwese, Chair, Department of History

E-mail: m.meuwese@uwinnipeg.ca

The University of Winnipeg is committed to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research environments, and is essential to academic and institutional excellence. *This position is designated for Indigenous persons only. *Please confidentially self-identify at the time of application. We welcome applications from all qualified individuals.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.
